PENINSULA WOMEN'S CHORUS

Venite Exultemus Domino, Levente Gyöngyösi

Romanian-born Hungarian composer Levente Gyöngyösi was born in 1975 and moved to Hungary at the age of fourteen. The PWC performed Venite Exultemus Domino at the 2006 Béla Bartók Competition in Debrecen, Hungary, and recorded it in 2007. In this unaccompanied setting, buoyant, cascading motifs are anchored by a pulsing beat that drives the piece through a variety of mood shifts, from a jubilant opening inviting the listener to “come, rejoice in the Lord,” to a more contemplative section that leads into darker, mysterious territory, to a restatement of the opening theme and a triumphant ending.

Venite, exultemus Domino;
iubilemus Deo salutari nostro.
Præoccupemus faciem eius in confessione,
et in psalmis iubilemus ei.

*O Come let us sing unto the Lord,
let us make a joyful noise to God our Savior.
Let us come before His presence in confession,
and make a joyful noise unto Him with psalms.*

Quant j'ai ouy le tabourin, William Brown

In the opening of Quant j'ai ouy le tabourin the choir simulates the sounds of sunrise and the thoughts of a young woman as she desires to return to a deep sleep. Later the sounds of morning doves are heard as the other voices portray the conflict in the mind of the sleeper: “Shall I remain complacent and continue to rest?” or “Shall I rise and participate in the Mayday activities?” The rhythmic tambourine incites the other young men and women to a day full of fun and frolic, but the young woman decides not to give in to the power of the tambourine, and she drifts back into a deep sleep as the opening music is heard again.

Quant j'ai ouy le tabourin
Sonner pour s'en aller au may,

*When I heard the tambourine
Sound, calling people to go a-maying,*

En mon lit n'en ay fait affray
Ne levé mon chief du coissin,
En disant: il est trop matin
Ung peu je me rendormiray.

*I made no movement in my bed
nor even lifted my head from my pillow,
saying, “It is too early,
I'll go back to sleep for a little while.”*

Quant j'ay ouy le tabourin
Sonner pour s'en aller au may,

*When I heard the tambourine
Sound, calling people to go a-maying,*

Jeunes gens partent leur butin;
De nonchaloir m'accointeray
A lui je m'abutineray
Trouvé l'ay plus prouchain voisin.

*Let the young people share their spoils,
I shall acquaint myself with Indifference,
and share myself with him;
I have found him to be my closest neighbor.*

Let Evening Come, Brian Holmes

Let Evening Come is a setting of a poem of Jane Kenyon (1947-1995). After she married the poet Donald Hall, nineteen years her senior, they moved to a farm in New Hampshire. The poem was written when Kenyon learned her husband had cancer; the words offer resignation and consolation, linked with vivid images drawn from their farm. Ironically, Hall survived, while cancer carried Kenyon away instead. The premiere was by Cantilena of Arlington, Massachusetts, just two weeks after Kenyon's death. Cantilena has recorded the piece, while The Choral Project has recorded a later version for mixed chorus. I hope the Peninsula Women's Chorus will sing this piece at my funeral, preferably in the distant future.

— Brian Holmes

Let the light of late afternoon
shine through chinks in the barn,
moving up the bales as the sun
moves down.

Let the fox go back to its sandy den.
Let the wind die down. Let the shed go black inside. Let evening come.

Let the cricket take up chafing
as a woman takes up her needles and her yarn. Let evening come.

To the bottle in the ditch, to the scoop
in the oats, to air in the lung
let evening come.

Let dew collect on the hoe
abandoned in long grass.
Let the stars appear and the moon
disclose her silver horn.

Let it come, as it will, and don't be afraid.
God does not leave us comfortless
So let evening come.

MUSAE

To My Valentine, Arthur Frackenpohl

Arthur Frackenpohl studied composition with Nadia Boulanger and Darius Milhaud and is professor emeritus at the Crane School of Music at SUNY Potsdam. Frackenpohl sets strophically the words of Ogden Nash. The poem, full of crunchy opposites, compares the intensity of love to squirting grapefruits, swimming ducks, stinging wasps, jerking subways, and irking hangnails.

Past Life Melodies, Sarah Hopkins (b. 1958)

Past Life Melodies is a three-sectioned work from Australian composer Sarah Hopkins. She instructs the performers to "deeply engage in and celebrate the diversity of humankind," to find primal qualities within and sing from the soul.

Firework, Eriksen, Perry, Hermansen, Dean, Wilhem, arr. Ryan James Brandau

The glee club phenomenon has roots in 1780s England. The recent resurgence of "a cappella" popularity, thanks in large part to reality television and the TV show, Glee, represents a large swath of new music re-imagined and arranged for young singers. In 2012, Musae commissioned former music director Ryan James Brandau to arrange Katy Perry's Firework to connect popularity with tradition.

PIEDMONT EAST BAY CHILDREN'S CHOIR ANCORA & ENSEMBLE

Vocal Fantasy, Anne Hege

Born in Oakland, CA, Anne Hege began her musical studies singing with the Piedmont East Bay Children's Choir in 1984. She received a B.A. in music from Wesleyan University, CT and an M.A. in Music Composition from Mills College, CA. Her latest compositions have been influenced by her deep listening practice and lie somewhere between ritual, music, and theater with some homemade instruments thrown in for good measure. Anne's Vocal Fantasy was written for her Princeton, NJ women's trio, Celestial Mechanics, in 2008.

A lo Chilango, Diana Syrse Valdés

The word "chilango" refers to the culture of the people that lives in Mexico City. A lo chilango is an expression that means: "The Chilangos way of life." Note: the first sounds are onomatopoeyas that describe the sounds that one can hear while going around Mexico City like machines, cars, motorcycles, phone calls and people talking.

No enemies and no bombs, Jafet Bruno Ponce

On Ensemble's 2012 tour to Mexico, following a performance at the Music Conservatory in Morelia, Jafet Bruno Ponce thrust a stack of music scores into Bob Geary's hands. The sentiment of the poem was particularly appealing to the singers; it is by Samantha Smith, a teenage girl from Manchester, ME, who was invited to tour the USSR in 1983 after writing to Soviet leader Yuri Andropov to ask if he was going to wage a nuclear war against the United States. Smith attracted extensive media attention in both countries as a “Goodwill Ambassador” and became known as “America’s Youngest Ambassador” participating in peacemaking activities in Japan. She wrote a book about her visit to the Soviet Union, before her death at the age of 13 in a plane crash.

Hubble*, John Reager

The choral setting of Diana Manister’s poem “Hubble” was in response to discussions between composer John Reager and Ensemble conductor Robert Geary. Reager says, “It occurred to me that Hubble might be set as a kind of secular motet. The style and brevity of the poem lend themselves to that form. It evokes a stark sense of the vastness of space and might be seen as an allegory to life in a global world in which individuals can feel adrift (Homeless in a placeless place). Could one be at home in such a place?” Ensemble gave the world premiere of Hubble in December, 2013.

COMBINED CHOIRS

Green Music*, Kirke Mechem

When Maestro Benvenuto suggested I write a piece for a program with an “eternity” theme, I hoped that it wouldn’t take that long for me to find a suitable text. I looked through my file of composer-friendly poems, and got lucky immediately with the line, “Through all eternity, green is the living spirit,” by Hildegard von Bingen. I went to the German edition of Wikipedia and found not only that quotation, but a long list of others from Hildegard’s writings. When I saw “Die Ewigkeit gleicht einem Rad, das weder Anfang noch Ende hat,” I knew I was in business. I tried various translations, tweaking them as I wrote the music. “Eternity is like a wheel; there is no beginning and there isn’t any end” is not as elegant as the original, nor does it rhyme, but it fit the round I wanted to compose for it. After all, a round (like “Three Blind Mice”) goes round and round without any definite stopping point. I reinforced this idea by harmonizing the round with a circle-of-fifths progression. You can get one of your music-major friends to explain that; all you need to know is that it also goes round and round.

— Kirke Mechem

Through all eternity,
green is the living spirit
that makes the earth flourish,
the winds blow,
the rivers run,
and the rain fall.

It makes the grasses laugh with the joy of living.

Eternity is like a wheel;
there is no beginning
and there isn’t any end.

Through all eternity,
green is the living spirit.

Eternity*, Michael Bojesen

In Eternity, Danish composer and conductor Michael Bojesen sets a text by the Danish poet Ellen Heiberg to a simple, pure opening melody. Lilted unison lines evoke the roll of the ocean's waves and the smoothness of the stone which represents a piece of "all eternity." Following the opening text, layered melodies sung on "ah" overlap and circle each other, representing the cycle of time. Each melody repeats and builds until it dies away, and the choir returns to unison to end on a single hummed note.

Find a stone that glistens when you walk on the shore.
One rolled throughout the ages by the ocean's mighty roar.
Feel it with your fingers, with a grain of sand.
Salted with the memories of far-off distant lands.
Hide it in your pocket where other eyes can't see.
It's your piece of the ocean and all eternity.

MUSAE

Musae is a women's vocal ensemble based in San Francisco. The group takes its name from the original "ladies of song," the classic nine Muses of Greek mythology. Since its founding in 2004, Musae has performed diverse and accessible music throughout the Bay Area, and continues to stretch the boundaries of traditional repertoire for women's voices.

Ben Johns made his debut as the artistic director of Musae in the 2012-13 season. He earned a master's degree in choral conducting in 2009 from the University of California, Irvine and holds undergraduate degrees in dance, vocal performance, and chemistry. Ben is also the director of education for Chanticleer, the professional men's vocal ensemble in which he formerly sang for three years. In this role, he directs Chanticleer's LAB Choir (a small ensemble, youth, and honor choir), gives choral workshops to Bay Area choirs, and conducts youth choral festivals. Ben also teaches voice privately and continues to sing professionally as a soloist and choral artist around the country.

VOX MUSICA

Vox Musica, directed by Daniel Paulson, was founded in 2006 in a niche of untapped potential in Sacramento's budding classical music scene. This women's vocal ensemble enjoys the privileged position of nurturing the choral arts by combining outstanding vocal artistry with innovative programming. Vox Musica is committed to excellence in performance of diverse and challenging choral literature for women's voices and is dedicated to promoting new works, including many premiers and commissioned works. In a recent review, Edward Ortiz, Arts Editor for the Sacramento Bee, hailed Vox Musica as a "welcome addition to the music scene," praising the group's "stunning clarity," "intense color," and "delicate touch." Through collaborations with composers, conductors, choirs and musicians from around the world, Vox Musica's featured concert projects have included collected works from the 18th century Venetian Ospedali, eastern music from India, Persia, and Georgia, a concert of music for Taiko Drums and Women's Voices, and a concert project featuring electronic music. Vox Musica has released one compact disc, has presented dual concert seasons in both Sacramento and Napa, and has been a featured artist on the prestigious Old First Concert Series in San Francisco and the American Choral Directors Association's 2011 National Convention in Chicago, IL.

Daniel Paulson, holds a Bachelor of Music degree in voice performance from Sacramento State University, and a Masters of Music Degree in Choral Conducting from California State University, Los Angeles.

Hailed as an "astute programmer" and a conductor who can "coax urbane performances from his singers," Daniel has assisted as conductor for the California State University Men's Chorus, Women's Chorus, and Chamber Choir; he has conducted the Dixon Community Choir, the Orchestra of St. Cecilia, All Hollows Chorus, and served as assistant chorus master and section principal for the Choir of St. Cecilia. Some of the highlights of his career include the creation of a children's chorus program for the Gold River Discovery Center and conducting his choirs at American Choral Directors Association's Chorus Festivals. Recently he attended the American Bach Soloist Summer Academy, conducted at The Festival of New American Music in Sacramento, CA, The Old First Concert Series in San Francisco, CA, and the American Choral Directors Association National Convention in Chicago, IL.

As a commissioned composer, Daniel's catalogue includes over twenty works written for strings, piano, and chorus. His compositions have been performed by Vox Musica, Sacred Heart's Schola Cantorum, the Choir of St. Cecilia, Dixon United Methodist Chamber Ensemble, St. Francis High School Girls Chorus, and professional musicians in and around the Sacramento region. In a recent review his compositions have been claimed to have a "deeply ethereal feel". Several of his arrangements have been released on the compact disc, "Christmas Colours".

Currently, he is the Adjunct Professor of Voice and Choral Studies at Sacramento City College, works in the Music Department at American River College, is a resident artist with the Tahoe Symphony Orchestra and Chorus, and serves as Founder & Music Director for Vox Musica. In 1993 Geary was awarded the International Peace Child Medal for his role as co-founder of the historic Golden Gate International Children's Choral Festival which is triennially hosted by PEBCC. In 1997 he received a special award for Outstanding Conductorship Achievement in Giessen, Germany and in 1998 Geary received a special award for interpretation at the Miedzzydroje Choral Festival in Poland. In 2002 he was named Music Educator of the Year by KDFC and in 2003 he received the Lois Blair Rawlings Educational Inspiration Award. Geary has served on the California Arts Commission's Peer Review Panel and as an adjudicator and guest conductor in the United States and internationally. Recordings of his choirs can be found on Harmonia Mundi, Koch International, Swiss International Radio and Innova. Geary also founded the new music chamber choir Volti and he is the Artistic Director of the San Francisco Choral Society.

PENINSULA WOMEN'S CHORUS

The Peninsula Women's Chorus, established in 1966, is a leader in the resurgence in women's choirs specializing in choral masterpieces. The PWC is known for adventurous programming, seeking out music written specifically for women and frequently commissioning new works. The singers are selected by audition and share an enthusiasm for challenging repertoire sung in original languages. Among PWC honors are second place in the American Prize for Choral Performance for its 2010 CD Nature Pictures, third prize in the 2006 Béla Bartók 22nd International Choir Competition, Women's Division, in Debrecen, Hungary; two Chorus America/ASCAP Awards for Adventurous Programming (2003 and 1999); finalist in the 2000 Margaret Hillis Award for Choral Excellence; and second prize at the 1994 Tallinn International Choral Competition in Estonia. The chorus has made three appearances at ACDA National Conventions – first in 1987, singing a feature concert of vocal orchestra music from the film Song of Survival and presenting music for women's voices in a special interest session of music by Kirke Mechem; in 1993, presenting a traditional choral program; and in March of 2001, presenting a contemporary tour de force before more than 6,000 choral directors to great acclaim. In addition, the chorus performed as a continental founding choir at the AmericaFest World Festival of Women's Singing in Seattle in July 2001. The PWC has participated in many choral competitions and festivals: in 2011, it was selected to participate in the Seghizzi International Competition of Choral Singing in Gorizia, Italy; in the summer of 2003, it was one of four choirs representing the United States in Festival 500: Sharing the Voices, an international festival of choral music in St. John's, Newfoundland. In addition to extensive performances throughout the San Francisco Bay Area, the chorus has been heard on National Public Radio, and has appeared on television both nationally and internationally.

PWC MENTORSHIP PROGRAM

The PWC has had the pleasure of welcoming and working with talented high school students in the fourth year of our Mentorship Program. This program offers young women currently enrolled in high school and with choral experience a unique opportunity to work with us on selected repertoire for performance at the New Music for Treble Voices festival. For more information about the PWC Mentorship Program please visit www.pwchorus.org/mentor.html.

Peninsula Women's Chorus: Unto The Earth

2014 Spring Concerts

PWC presents the world premiere of Heart Spells by San Francisco composer Mark Winges to complement earth songs by American composers Stephen Paulus, Ron Jeffers, and Brian Holmes. A phrase used to describe dance in Latin (pede terram pulso) literally means "to beat or strike the earth with the foot," and the singers explore this concept with dance-inspired songs and a choreographed performance of Famine Song, inspired by stories of Sudanese basket weavers praying for rain. The program will close with an arrangement of an African American spiritual, whose origins stemmed from singing while working the earth. Come indulge your hunger for beautiful, lush music!

The Piedmont East Bay Children's Choir presents its annual Spring Sing on Saturday, May 31 at 3 p.m. at the Oakland Interstake Center.

The concert showcases ten PEBCC choirs with children ages 7 to 17. These international award winning youngsters sing a mix of traditional and contemporary songs, followed by a brief and poignant ceremony that honors this year's graduates, many of whom have sung with Piedmont East Bay Children's Choir for more than half their lives. A dramatic finale unites all these voices under the baton of Artistic Director Bob Geary. Admission is $18 general / $12 student / $30 premium reserved. Tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door.
