

UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CHORUS

SPRING CONCERT

Marge Rawlins, Director

Ruth Spector, Accompanist

Thursday, May 15, 1975
8:00 PM

Menlo Park Council Chambers

sponsored by the
Menlo Park Arts Commission

PROGRAM

I

Fa una Canzone Orazio Vecchi (1551-1605)
arr. by Norman Greyson
Sing a song without sadness
If you want to please me.
Sing a song which invites slumber
And end it sweetly.

Veni, Creator Spiritus
Hector Berlioz (1803-1869)

Der 23. Psalm Franz Schubert (1797-1828)

Ellen's Second Song, Franz Schubert
Op. 52, No. 2 arr. by Johannes Brahms
Words from Walter Scott's "The Lady of the Lake"

Soprano solo, Colleen Baker

University Women's Chorus

II

Songs from "The Maid of the Mill" Franz Schubert
Wohin (Whither)
While walking beside a rushing stream, a young man compares the meandering of the brook with his own wanderings.

Die Neugierige (The Question)
The wanderer asks the brook to tell him whether or not his beloved returns his passion.

Morgengruss (Morning Greeting)
"Good morning, lovely maiden. Why are you so shy? Come to your window so that I may gaze upon your beauty."

Sonntag (Sunday) Johannes Brahms (1833-1897)
The young man thinks fondly of his sweetheart.
Although he sees her only at church on Sundays,
even this brief glimpse of her cheers him
through the lonely days.

Der Schmied (The Smith) Johannes Brahms
The young girl hears her blacksmith lover's hammer clanging, resounding through the streets and square, and sees the fires of his forge flaming around him.

Nora Schoenfeld, Mezzo-soprano

III

There shall be more joy Paul Nordhoff
Words by Ford Madox Ford

Tell me, o blue, blue sky Vittorio Giannini
Words by Karl Flaster

Love in the Dictionary Celius Dougherty
The definition of "love" as found in Funk and Wagnall's dictionary.

Night Edwin McArthur
Words by Charles Hanson Towne

Mary Ann Gould, Soprano

IV

Mountain Nights, No. 1 Zoltán Kodály (1881-1967)

Dancing Song Zoltán Kodály
English words by Elisabeth M. Lockwood

In Time of Daffodils Lorie Griswold
Words by e.e. cummings

Carol Howitt, Flute

In Just Spring Lorie Griswold
Words by e.e. cummings

Choose Something Like a Star Randali Thompson
From "Frostiana, Seven Country Songs"
Words by Robert Frost

An Immorality Aaron Copland
Words from "Lustra" by Ezra Pound

Soprano solo, Mary Ann Gould

University Women's Chorus